

Science is a subset of all human knowledge which, in turn, is a subset of “what is”.

The boundaries will forever be expanding, but we will never know everything.

